Sekai Maswoswe

SEKAI MASWOSWE (BA, Baylor University, 2005. MA in Progress, Columbia University)

The projects I would like to initiate as your President-elect follow: Domestic field school. Organize a low-cost/high-value ethnographic training field school in a major city on a weekend. Paper Review. Set up peer/professional reviewers to edit papers/articles prior to submission in order to increase NASA members chances of publication. Fundraising. Create additional financial opportunities for anthropologists in training to conduct research including regular partnerships with campus-based anthropology groups. Next Stage Networking. Develop a program for students who are moving into the next stage of their careers to submit a request for resources. We harness all of our connections/resources to help our members move to their next stage (graduate school, work, fellowship etc.) by providing personal case management via intensive networking. Mentorship. Reininvigorate mentorship/apprentice opportunities and relationships for NASA members with senior anthropologists. Website/Interactivity. NASA members sign up for a Ning group where every member has a profile. I want to create a community with a face so that we can know our comrades more intimately and post our research ideas and progress in a community of similarly-situated students. Digital yearbook/Directory. Develop a digital yearbook to archive ourselves more thoroughly at this stage of our careers. I also want to compile a more detailed directory of members as well as a directory for former members. Ask Alice Site. Develop a part of our website where students can submit questions and receive answers from peers and professionals.

Melinda Bernardo

MELINDA BERNARDO (MA, New School for Social Research, 2008) Positions

Held: Secretary/Treasurer, NASA (2007-Present); Graduate Representative, CSAS (2009 - Present); Contributing Editor, NASA Section Column, Anthropology News (2005 - 2007); Newsletter Editor/Publisher (2004 - 2006) The Jifunze Project.

Interests and/or Activities: immigration, nationalism, anthropology of Jews and Judaism.

As a PhD student in sociocultural anthropology at The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, I am interested in promoting the involvement of both graduates and undergraduates in the AAA, particularly within NASA. I previously served as Contributing Editor of NASA's column in Anthropology News and hope to continue my involvement with the section in the position of Secretary/Treasurer. Serving as an editor helped me become familiar with the concerns and interests of students, while my last term as Secretary/Treasurer helped me understand the business-end of the section while also learning the best ways to use our funds in the interest of student development. I am running for an additional term in this position in order to continue to serve the student population by helping to provide information and resources. I am excited to continue my involvement with NASA, since I believe it is an important venue for student discussion - one that encourages student involvement and helps convey the unique perspective of student anthropologists.

Keri A. Canada

KERI A. CANADA (MA, California State University- Fullerton, 2007; PhD in progress, University of Nevada, Reno) Positions Held: Nominations Committee Chair, NASA (2007-Present); Carrie Hunter-Tate Award Committee Chair, NASA (2007-Present); Graduate Representative-At-Large, NASA (2008-Present); Adjunct faculty, Truckee Meadows Community College (2007-Present); Lecturer, University of Nevada, Reno (2009) ; Interests and/or Activities: medical anthropology, reproductive health, decision-making; Significant Publications: "Sexual Risk-Taking and Health-Seeking in Orange County Adults: A Survey of Potential Influences," Verlag Dr. Müller Press, 2008; Book review of Judith A. Houck's "Hot and Bothered: Women, Medicine, and Menopause in North America," Anthropology and Aging Quarterly, 2007.

I have been involved with NASA since 2007 in various positions, and I hope to expand my repertoire in the position of Newsletter Editor. I am fortunate to have relevant publication experience, having published a book review as well as my own book, and I have served as a reviewer for NASA's E-Journal. In addition, I worked for several years as a copy editor for a handful of professional publications. I find it advantageous that I will have finished my PhD coursework by the time I would take over as Newsletter Editor, giving me ample time to devote to the duties of this position. As Newsletter Editor, I would strive to continue the efforts of our current staff to ensure NASA's presence in Anthropology News, and would look forward to volunteering my time to assist the AAA publication staff with any additional assistance they may require. I look forward to this opportunity to serve NASA, the AAA, and my fellow students.

Sarah Taylor

SARAH TAYLOR (MA, California State University-Long Beach, 2008) Positions Held: Administrator and Research Assistant (2008-Pres) OSEA-CITE Field Study Program; Secretary (2008-Pres) Anthropology Graduate Student Organization, University at Albany, SUNY; Special Assistant to the Chair (2007-2008) CSU Long Beach Department of Anthropology;

Interests and/or Activities: research on community-based tourism development in Yucatan, participation in national meetings (American Anthropological Association, Society for Applied Anthropology, Society for Visual Anthropology, and Society for Cultural Anthropology), ethnographic film and the use of visual methods in fieldwork; Significant Publications: "Neoliberal Modernization at the Mexican Periphery: Gender, Generation, and the Construction of a New, Flexible Workforce" (with Ron Loewe), Urban Anthropology Studies 2008.

I am truly excited about the opportunity to serve the National Association of Student Anthropologists as E-Journal Editor. Currently, I am a Ph.D. student studying cultural anthropology at the University at Albany, SUNY. I received my MA in applied anthropology in 2008 from California State University, Long Beach, where I worked as a special assistant to the chair. My responsibilities included the maintenance of the department's public presence, via the website, newsletter, event announcements and materials, and bulletin board postings in the department. My current activities also add to the experience and ability I will bring to the role of NASA E-Journal Editor. As the Secretary of my department's graduate student organization, I am responsible for assisting the president with all announcements and postings for the AGSO. I also serve on the Graduate Research Symposium Committee. As the administrator and research assistant for the Open School for Ethnography and Anthropology (OSEA), I am responsible for all correspondence with interested students and all promotional materials and mailings. I am confident that the experiences listed here, as well as my commitment to participation in meetings of the AAA and the SfAA, make me an excellent candidate to serve NASA as the E-Journal Editor.

LAUREN ANAYA (JD, University of Iowa, 1991; MA, University of Iowa, 2007). Position Held: Worked for approximately 13 years with the U.S. Dept. of Justice as an Assistant U.S. Attorney. Served as immigration coordinator and on several multi-jurisdictional committees, including committee to establish center for victims of sexual abuse and committee to improve handling of sexual offenses occurring on Tohono O'odham and Pascua Yaqui Nations. Interests and/or Activities: law, legal process, justice, Mediterranean Europe (esp. Italy), family (family law), identity, and nationalism.

I am currently a PhD student in sociocultural anthropology at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. If selected to serve as graduate representative-at-large, I would encourage undergraduate and graduate students to become more actively involved with AAA and NASA. I would like to see students gain a stronger presence/voice in AAA. In addition, I want to make students more aware of the opportunities that are available to them, and help them get the information and resources they need to develop as anthropologists. I am responsible, committed, energetic, and enthusiastic about serving in this position.

body image and dance as therapy.

Being a director of a field school has instilled in me a passion for helping students of all levels, ages, backgrounds, etc. achieve their goals, both professionally and personally. Helping students find the means to meet their full potential is ultimately what helped me to decide to work toward my doctorate and continue my journey to a life in academia. Through various community leadership roles, I have developed the skills to connect people with a wide variety of resources and tools for success. Since taking leadership roles in the Graduate Student Association as well as the Anthropology Graduate Association at the University of Texas at San Antonio, one of my goals has been to foster a community that encourages involvement and cooperation amongst students. The information that flows between peers, be it about an interesting article just published or a grant request for proposals, is vital to our success as anthropologists, and I like to help do my part in spreading the word to whomever may benefit from the news. As the Graduate Representative-At-Large, I would continue my efforts on a more national scale. I will work to support all anthropology graduate students obtain the information that they need in order to succeed in their academic and professional careers.

Juan Valdez

JUAN VALDEZ (BA, California State University-Fullerton, 2008) Positions Held: Humanities and Social Sciences Inter Club Council Chair position, CSUF. (Fall 2008- current). I promote multiple club organizations, student involvement, and academic development. MESA Cooperativa Secretary position, CSUF. (Fall 2008-Spring 2008) I learned active minute taking and document organizing. Anthropology Students Association Secretary position, CSUF. (Spring 2006, Fall 2008). I participated in planning big events such as our yearly anthropology symposium.

I am a good candidate to fill up NASA's Grad Rep at Large position. I have experience in different school organizations. I learned from each one skills that may maintain NASA's mission statement to its best. I attended several leadership training workshops as an undergraduate. I felt that it was a responsibility to apply academic skills in the community early in school. I am a committed and energetic student that looks forward to assisting and finding the needs that may help others to achieve their goals. For instance, during my term as Inter Club Council Chair, I developed an academic program that represented various disciplines within the Humanities and Social Sciences students of CSUF. I think that working with people with opposite visions does not create a barrier but allows the advancement into new levels of knowledge. I always like to participate in events where individual efforts reflect collective perspectives. Anthropology has taught me to embrace the human diversity from different angles. I enjoy all aspects of anthropology specially the cultural subfield. My intention to run as NASA's Grad Rep will give me an experience beyond personal satisfaction. I want to be able to gain long lasting friends and colleagues.

Positions Held: Editorial Intern, (Present) Cultural Anthropology; Senator, (Fall 2007-Fall 2008) Georgetown University Student Association; President, (Fall 2006) International Justice Mission, University Chapter; President, (2004) Halstrom High Associated Student Body.

We have to become more relevant to the immediate and practical goals of undergraduate students. In 1995, former NASA Vice President Lohman identified the important role that computers would come to play in anthropology. NASA has utilized a digital platform as the basis of organizational communication since that time. Undergraduates are especially constrained by financial considerations, and often cannot make conferences. We have to bring the meeting to them.

That involves a coordinated effort to reach out to undergraduate anthropology clubs and departments around the country. Putting this plan into action, I purpose to create online video/podcast programs that: 1) help introduce to undergraduates to possibilities in anthropology, 2) address applying for grad school, grants, and student publishing, and 3) provide topical lecture series to help students situate themselves in current issues in anthropology. Additionally, I propose to collaborate with the other AAA sections and actively promote the use/assignment of NASA podcasts in undergraduate courses. I am running for undergraduate rep because I believe that we can do more for undergraduate students as part of our organization-wide goals of encouraging student participation in the AAA, advocating for student-specific positions, and providing academic and career resources.

I have been involved with NASA since 2007 and hope to continue my involvement as Nominations Committee Chair. It is important to me that NASA and its members are active, engaged members of AAA, and helping to promote this involvement within NASA is a crucial part of that goal. I have also been involved with NASA in other ways - as an award committee chair and as graduate representative; I enjoy being able to use NASA as a venue to encourage student participation in AAA as a whole. I feel that running for an additional term of Nominations Committee Chair is the best way to ensure the nomination and election process continues to run as smoothly as it has the past few years; this year, for instance, is the first time recently the Call for Nominations was compiled and submitted to NASA members before the annual AAA meeting. I am excited at the prospect of my continued involvement in NASA, and I look forward to our successful years ahead.

My name is Willa Zhen and I am a 2nd year PhD student at the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), the University of London. I am interested in the position of Nominations Committee Member. If elected, I would use this opportunity to expand NASA's reach to all students of anthropology. As an American studying at an overseas institution, I see a particular need to extend its NASA's reach abroad. The challenges faced by all students regardless of locale are quite similar. We all struggle with developing research, securing funding, publishing, and searching for jobs. A strengthened outreach would help bring in new members to the organization. On a personal level, I am interested in this position as a way to connect with my peers. It would be a great way to exchange ideas and learn how the next generation of anthropologists are contributing to the growth of the discipline.

What do you do if life is busy with coursework, fieldwork, grant writing, teaching, raising kids? What if you are stuck in a rut and see nothing new in the horizon? You hope a NASA Opportunities Newsletter arrives in your inbox with new ideas, possibilities, and good information about internships, fellowships, conferences, workshops, and other goodies to tease your scholarly cravings. That is what I would like to prepare for you. A banquet of opportunities with surprises you would be unlikely to learn about on your own.

I did that as the founder of student organizations during my college years at Saint Olaf College, and then during my master's degree at Harvard University. The Ph.D. has taken hold of my life for the last few years, but it is time to once again get out there and do something that can benefit us all. I greatly enjoy being a bridge between people and opportunities. I also love starting things from scratch. I hear the newsletter hasn't been very active recently, and would love to wake it up, shake it up, and make it work for us again.
